Environmental racism is a term used to describe environmental injustice that occurs in practice and in policy within a racialized context.. In 1982, the term was coined by Benjamin Chavis, who was the then executive director of the United Church of Christ (UCC) Commission for Racial Justice, in response to the dumping of hazardous PCB waste in a town in Warren County, North Carolina.

First and foremost are two recent studies reporting a relationship between water treated with silicofluorides and elevated levels of lead in children's blood (Masters & Coplan 1999, 2000). The authors of these studies speculate that the silicofluoride complex may increase the uptake of lead (derived from other environmental sources, such as lead paint) into the bloodstream.
