Since logic programming computation is proof search, to study logic programming means to study proofs. We adopt here the approach by Martin-Löf [3]. Although he studied logic as a basis for functional programming rather than logic programming, his ideas are more fundamental and therefore equally applicable in both paradigms.

3. LOGIC PROGRAMMING Though logic programming bears a resemblance in syntax to functional programming due to the logic clauses being formatted similar to a function call, but the resemblance is only practical. Though logic is used in relations in functional programming, this logic is different than the concept of the logic programming paradigm.
